VALUA BLE

Steam Flouring Mill FOR SALE

THE LAGE FIVE STORY Stone MILL, known as MOTP'S in the bereigh of Pitteron. Luxerne country, Pennsylvania, is offered for sale. It is sinusted in the heart of the Wyoming and Luxiswamin coal fields, and certainty preserves a divantages as r. gards locality, water and rairrond communication, that no other Mill possessors. It has a water communication from its very door to Baltimore, Mil. on the one side, and fieldalo, N. Y. on the other, while communication is had by Railroad with all pures of the country. A bridge spanning the Susqueshamn brings grain, &c. &c., of Wyoming valley right by its doors. parts of the country. A bringe spanning tale Susquehamm brings grain, &c. &c. of Wyoming valley right by its doors.

The desense of Jis Mott. Esq., its prenrietor, is the cause of this valuable property being farown upon the market. Wr. Mett, as is well known, was a practical miller, and after the destruction of his old Milly fire, conceived the idea of creeting a MODE.
Mill, and fi om his imple means, but the present structure. It is faratished with an excellent engine, four run of stone, and modern machinery of the very host kutd. Its massive foundations rests upon a softa rock and rises five stories high from the canat. The grinting floor is in the analite story. It is the most solid structure in the constry and was alway viewed with hencest pride, and justly too, as an enduring menument of the owners industry and perseverance.
The clorage capacity of first mill is senormous, and four, grain &c. are localed and unlocated from canat beats by improved elevators. There is machinery to convey grain to any part of the mill required. A hone market afters a ready safe for all the hran, shorts and mit stuff manufactored at good prices.

market affers a ready safe for an the bran, shorts and mill stoff manufactured at good prices.

There is a lot, dwelling house and 82re, suitable for the miller, and a store and lot salpinung the mill property, which will be sold with it. . . seared.

If not sold before the 20th of March next, it will be off-cel for rent.

Every practical business man who investigates the desirableanes of the location, and the permanance of its starture, must be fully convinced that this is a most favorable opportunity to make a size and profit side investment, and affords a rare chance t accumu-is to a fortune.

The terms of desired might be, one quarter downsth ten county yearly payments, with interest of the with tenequal yearty payments, with interest of the whole sum of deferred payments annually.

The Bribed Legislator.

The man who is unfaithful to a trust. However small, is vitally unjust ; And he who is unjust in little things Would be a villain in the courts of kings Present a bribe and down his victue falls In courts, in camps, or legislative halls! The bribed apostate! Blot his hateful name From each and every scroll of honest fame ! Let no man trust him - none forbear to shed Contempt and deep dishonor ha his head t Let Scorn her finger point with bitter gibes And say, behold the consequence of bribes ! Let guiletess children, as he passes by, Shring from his touch and sandder at his eye And spurn him as a reptite in the dest ! And whilest he lives, let infamy alone Claim this Bribed Legislator as her own Until he diesand sinks into the grave, To poison worms that feast upon the knave! There 'midst the storms let hideous Faries fant Hold nightly revels and in concert how! I Let hisring serpents make that spot their home And he the waterful guardians of his tomb t And when he goes to helt let Satan stare. And not him "who the days ment are there?" And feel the insuft, deep, severe and keen, To see a fiend pro eminantly meah Mid bener devils radely ushered in, A foul, appailing prodigy of sin; And in Hell's hottest furnace erammed, Let him be damned-superlatively damned ! Yes, damned eternally ten thousand times.

press an abortive Chartist outbreak. He is too anxious to establish his dynasty to aid revolution in any quarter. He has been a beggar, a wanderer, an outcast, too long to imperit his throne by coming to logger-heads with England. He knows that she would let loose the red republicans of Europe upon him, and topple his throne over in less than a month, and send him forth again to beg his bread. Hope for the Irish from such a quarter is hopeless. I may be told that she could not do this. I state in reply that she hunted a for greater man than he, and left him to pine to death upon a small isle in the South Atlantic. Let my countrymen look into all these matters with care, and then draw their conclusions. I am pained to advert to the brawls, denunciations, and counter-denunciations of the Favion factions which have occurred in our midst during the last few months --Are these leaders sincere? Does it not appear as if it were a struggle for power, as the power brings grist to the mili ? Why is it that the Messrs. Roberts and O'Mahony Congress and the Senate cannot agree ! If we are to believe cach of the other faction, they must be wrong. The myth, Stephens, is an enigmatical character. How was it that he was enabled to open nine locks, and thus escape from jail? Did gold do it ? There are people who say that Stevens is in the employ of the British Government. I am not disposed to say so, and shall wait events to develop this transaction. Where are the appoint ed places of rendezvous for the Fenian ar my ! Not surely in the United States, because our Government cannot, will not,

I now proceed to ascertain the numbers of men and amount of money requisite to make a probable invasion of Ireland. It will be readily admitted that no likely successful rising could take place without the assistance of at least a hundred thousand armed invaders; to convey these across the ocean from some standpoint it will take one hundred transports, and at least there ought to be twenty armed steamers to proteet them in their transit, because if any leader rush enough were to arm a privateer, to prey upon British commerce, his vessel would be captured, and he and his crew would be strung up to the yard arm as pirates. I suppose the Fenian leaders have the men; but have they the money or credit to cloth, equip, and pay the hundred thousand men for one year ? I prove below the cost of such an army. Patriotism is very fine, but it will not buy a gun, do this. Probable cost is appended in a PUCK'S NEW YORABULARY .- The old "Indder to learning" style of book is now sadly out of date and is more apt to mislead children of the present day then to instruct them. Puck has at infinite pains prepared a new vocabulary for children, which he has no doubt the board of Education will order to be used in all the Publie Schools.
